NO STRINGS ON UNITED STATES BANK INQUIRY

Roosevelt Tells Members of Senate Committee to Go As Far As Possible

Pecora, Counsel, In Fighting Mood

Senator Glass, Committee Member, Receives Letter Threatening Life

By Nathan Robertson
Associated Press Staff Writer
Washington, May 29.—President Roosevelt told members of the Senate banking committee to-day he wanted their investigation of J. P. Morgan and Company and other private bankers to be pushed forward "without limit."

In an official source it was asserted the President "renewed his expression of desire to have the investigation go through without limit, and indicated his complete confidence in the committee."

Members of the committee said they regarded this as an indication the President was satisfied with the manner in which Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, has been conducting the investigation.

At the beginning of the investigation into private bankers, President Roosevelt gave the committee his backing and urged the inquiry be a thorough one.

As a matter of fact, it was said to-day in an informed quarter, the President suggested to the committee at that time that its activities be turned toward the private bankers.

TALKED WITH WOODIN
His present expression of confidence came after he had spent a week-end down the Potomac with Secretary of the Treasury, William Woodin, during which they discussed the inclusion of Woodin's name on the list of special

SUE INQUEST IS ADJOURNED

One Week Delay Ordered Before Presentation of Evidence to Jury

The inquest over Sue Min Jim, Chinese houseboy at the home of H. M. McGivern, Uplands, was adjourned this morning for one week by Coroner E. C. Hart, who announced that the evidence in the case was not in shape yet to present to the jury.

After only a few minutes session, in which the jury were sworn in and viewed the battered remains of the man, the hearing was set for next Monday morning at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Parlors.

Police did not enlarge upon the coroner's explanation of the adjournment, but merely said they were pursuing investigation of the brutal killing.

John Jones was sworn in as the jury foreman and the other members are: John Burt-Smith, James Macrimmon, Douglas Robertson, Archibald Lang and Harold Curran.

Inspector J. F. C. B. Vance, Vancouver city analyst, who has been asked to assist in the case, did not attend, having returned to the mainland over the week-end to study the physical evidence of the killing in his laboratory. He made a careful study of the McGivern house, where the slaying occurred last Tuesday night, and was able to gather a few clues which may be the means of throwing some light on the mystery.

The announcement, made by the commission, says that at the outset, this service will extend over a period of at least three hours during the best broadcasting part of the day.

The commission has leased station CKGW for a term of years and will operate it through commission management, according to the announcement. The commission is placing Charles Shearer, well-known Toronto radio man, in charge of this station as manager.

Broadcasting stations at Moncton, Ottawa, Toronto and Vancouver will

New Social Views Significant For Library Workers

"Dramatic Moment" For Librarians, Dr. Helen Stewart Tells Conference

LIBRARY'S VITAL PLACE STRESSED

Over 100 Delegates at Pacific Northwest Association's Opening Session To-day

Radical changes, particularly since the Great War, in the attitude to knowledge and learning and in the attitude to reading, added to a complete revolution with regard to the conception of the general public, had helped bring on the "dramatic moment," the day of judgment for the library profession, and had brought the day closer when librarians must make a new estimate of their place in the community and of the manner in which they were performing their duties, said Dr. Helen G. Stewart, of the Carnegie Demonstration, New Westminster, in delivering the feature address at the opening session of the Pacific Northwest Library Association's conference in the Empress Hotel this morning.

Under the influence of a modern social life in which values went up and down like the stock market, when that so-called ruling class of the nineteenth century, which theoretically had appropriated all the intellectuality and

Critic Stirs More Protests

Oxford Grouper's Article On Victoria Prompts Replies and Comparisons

Letters to the editor of the York-shire Post in which the article was published and to the editor of the Victoria Daily Times in which it was reproduced indicate the resentment which has been stirred over the description of Victoria by Mrs. Nell Glover, one of the Oxford Group Movement Party who visited Victoria recently.

Former residents of Victoria now living in Yorkshire wrote to the English paper taking issue with Mrs. Glover's criticisms. Other writers have compared Victoria's streets, stores, street lights and the dress of Victoria women with the narrow streets and old buildings of York.

Other writers have forwarded letters direct to Mrs. Glover. One written by S. Stonier follows:

Dear Nell:
"It shames me a rattling good piece you wrote about this little old town of ours. Ya know we don't get away from this spot very much so we don't get to know all the improvements they have in Little Ditchwater (or was it Bilgewater?) in dear old Yorkshire."

"About our streets know—we got so used to seein' 'em we didn't realize they was dirty but we'll fix 'em. We'll get some of those old country cobble stones. They always look clean. (When it rains)."

"I didn't know our women was so far behind in their clothes. I'm sendin' to Manchester for a shawl and a pair o' clogs for the missus. Thanks for the tip."

"Ya know y've caused quite a bit of talk around the town about the Oxford Group with your little piece. It is a good example of 'absolute honesty' and 'absolute love' (y' did write it out of love fer us didn't ya Nell?) It's a big boost for the Movement to see a shinin' light like your self taking an interest in a hick town like this and giving us so much kind advice."

"Of course there is some ungrateful people who don't take your remarks in the right spirit. They actually think you're trying to knock the town so they're turned around and started to knock the movement. But you'll always find people ready to make the worst of anything. Ungrateful I call 'em."

"We'd be glad if you'd call 'n Victoria again in about a year's time to tell us 'what progress we're makin'." Perhaps you could write a few more remarks."

"We'll be lookin' fer ya."

McLarnin-Corbett Fight on the Air

To-night's ten-round bout at Los Angeles between Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver, the challenger, and Young Corbett, Fresno, California, for the welterweight championship of the world, will be broadcast over station CFCV, Vancouver. Andy Lytle, sports editor of The Vancouver Sun, will be at the ringside, and his running story will go on the air at 8:30 o'clock, Pacific Standard Time.

TORY EXPECTS BIG CONGRESS

Science Congress Will Be Representative of All Pacific Countries, Says President

Lieut.-Governor Will Welcome Delegates Thursday; Foreign Visitors Coming

"The congress which opens here on Thursday, in spite of the difficult times, will be quite representative of the countries of the Pacific area," said Dr. Henry M. Tory, Ottawa, president of the National Research Council of Canada, who is at the Empress Hotel to-day completing details for the opening this week of the fifth Pacific Science Congress.

"The programme is a magnificent one and we have every reason to expect that this scientific congress will prove one of the most successful yet held."

Dr. Tory, who will preside over the sessions of the congress, is accompanied here to-day by E. P. Eagleson, secretary-treasurer of the National Research Council. S. J. Cook, general secretary of the congress, will be in Victoria to-morrow from Vancouver.

The indications are that at least one hundred and fifty registered delegates will be in Victoria for the opening of the convention. At the Vancouver congress, which opens June 5, it is expected there will be some two hundred, and fifty delegates present.

New York, May 29.—Canadian and British currencies continued to advance on the New York foreign exchange market to-day as legislation designed to eliminate the gold clauses from United States obligations was rushed through Congress at Washington.

The Canadian dollar touched its highest level in several weeks at 88 3/8 cents, up 3/8 of one per cent. The pound sterling added nearly two cents at 83.99.

THREE BANKS IN U.S. ROBBED

At Culver, Ind., Five Robbers Escape With $16,000 After Gun Fight With Citizens

Rensselaer, N.Y., May 29.—Surprised by police while holding up the Rensselaer County Bank just before noon to-day, six robbers shot their way out of the institution, killed one detective and fled with $2,000 in a waiting automobile.

MARSHAL KILLED
Paris, Ark., May 29.—Bandits held up the First National Bank of Paris early to-day, both being held on the officers, killed Andy Gannaughton, city marshal.

The amount of money taken was not immediately determined.

Culver, Ind., May 27.—The State Exchange Bank of Culver was held up to-day by five men who escaped with $16,000.

The robbers got away after an exchange of shots with Culver citizens, Carl Adams, assistant cashier of the bank, and Glenn Mattix, a customer, were forced to accompany the robbers as they fled, both being held on the running board of the bandits' car as a shield against the fire of townspeople. Adams and Mattix were released after they had been carried a few miles to the country. Neither was injured.

GANDHI ENDS HIS LONG FAST

Physicians Believe He Will Slowly Recover Strength After Great Test

Associated Press
Poona, India, May 29.—"In God's name I began this fast, and in God's name I end it," said Mahatma Gandhi to-day as he broke a three weeks' voluntary abstinence from food in the cause of the "untouchable" by sipping a glass of orange juice.

He began the fast at noon May 8. The end of the fast was as impressive as its beginning. Long before the hour at which the ordeal was ended, 8:20 a.m., the residence of Madame Sarojini Naidu, poetess and lecturer, where the fast was carried out, was besieged by the Mahatma's friends of all castes, Hindus, Mohammedans, Parsees and Europeans. Finally 150 men and women friends and a score of newspapermen were admitted into a big white hall.

In a smaller room behind open glass doors, the Mahatma lay motionless on a bed with a wet cloth on his head. Beside him was a half glass of yellow fruit juice. A faint cloud of incense rolled over the assembly.

ACKNOWLEDGED GREETINGS
Gandhi's bed was then brought into the larger room, where he joyfully acknowledged the greetings of all present.

Daughter of Kansas City, Mo., City Manager at Home After Release

Young Woman Says Abductors Treated Her With Courtesy

Kansas City, Mo., May 29.—Miss Mary McElroy, twenty-five, ransomed from the hands of abductors yesterday, was at the home of her father, H. F. McElroy, city manager of Kansas City, Mo., to-day. She was abducted by two men at 11 Saturday forenoon from the fashionable McElroy home in the country club district.

McElroy and his son, Henry F. McElroy Jr., twenty-three, made contact with the abductors yesterday afternoon on a lonely road in Wyandotte County, Kansas, across the state line. They handed over a package containing $30,000 in bills, on the promise Miss McElroy would be freed within two hours. The girl appeared at the Milburn Golf Club about 4 p.m.

She was not harmed, but was exhausted. She said the abductors had released her from a car at the gate entering the club grounds.

TWO MINISTERS CLEAR DESKS

Hon. William Atkinson, Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. N. S. Lougheed, Minister of Lands, who will leave the B.C. cabinet at the end of the month, are busily engaged in cleaning up odds and ends preparatory to relinquishment of their offices Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Atkinson has acquired his old business in Chilliwack, and soon will be presiding at the auction block at livestock sales. He is known as one of the most successful auctioneers in British Columbia. "I shall feel hurt if any of my Victoria friends failed to pay me a visit if they call at Chilliwack," he said. He had enjoyed his few years in politics.

Mr. Lougheed will again enter the lumbering business. He is not expected to take an active interest in the forthcoming election.

FOUR DELAYED AID
When the wireless crackled out SOS calls, the freighter Ms. Tremaine answered the summons. Owing to the fog, however, the captain of the freighter ventured only within four miles of the wreck.

As the Co listed some ninety degrees, there was no panic. Five boats were lowered over the port side and these craft, along with boats and rafts sent out from the lighthouse, transported all passengers and crew to Rock of Ages Reef.

After first aid there the three injured, along with Adeline Keeling, the ship's nurse, and George M. Cox, company president, who was aboard the vessel, were taken to the Tremaine and

Vessel Lies Wrecked on Reef Off Isle Royale, With 32 Passengers and Crew of 86 on Shore; Three of Latter Are in Hospital at Port Arthur, Ontario

CRASH CAME AS FOG PREVAILED

Ship Was on Way to Port Arthur to Carry 250 to World's Fair at Chicago

Port Arthur, Ont., May 29.—The first Great Lakes disaster of 1933 to-day found the passenger steamer George M. Cox a wreck on the barren Rock of Ages Reef in Lake Superior, where she crashed while en route from Chicago to Port Arthur.

In a hospital here were three members of the crew of eighty-six, including one woman, a stewardess, while safe, either here or at Houghton, Mich., were thirty-two passengers and other members of the ship's personnel.

When the big lake liner, which was headed for Port Arthur to take aboard 250 Canadian passengers for the World's Fair at Chicago, crashed late Saturday, Beatrice Cote, stewardess, John Gancarz and Alex Mack were injured. None was seriously hurt, but painful injuries required hospital treatment. Another member of the crew, George Williams, was also hurt. All are United States residents. The steamer was moving through a heavy fog when she struck the reef.

George M. Cox, president of the owning company, the Isle Royale Transportation Company, accompanied the injured here.

"These things do happen," he told reporters. "The steamer, in my opinion, is a total wreck."

He had high praise for the crew, under the command of Captain George Johnson, Traverse City, Mich. The men, he said, had maintained admirable discipline and calmly carried out the shipmaster's orders.

SALVAGE SURVEY
A survey of the wreck was being made to-day by state authorities from Port Arthur. Aboard the tug Strathmore, investigators left here yesterday evening to investigate the possibility of salvaging the stranded vessel.

The vessel's back apparently was broken and there was a big hole in the bottom. It was thought improbable the vessel could be pulled free and the reef appeared likely to be the grave of the $200,000 craft.

Momentary confusion reigned as the crash, coming at 5:15 p.m., sent passengers and crew alike sprawling from the dining tables. The stern was submerged in less than five minutes, but everyone was over the side and on the way to safety within forty-five minutes.

When the wireless crackled out SOS calls, the freighter Ms. Tremaine answered the summons. Owing to the fog, however, the captain of the freighter ventured only within four miles of the wreck.

As the Co listed some ninety degrees, there was no panic. Five boats were lowered over the port side and these craft, along with boats and rafts sent out from the lighthouse, transported all passengers and crew to Rock of Ages Reef.

U.S. Congress Postpones St. Lawrence Pact Debate

Washington, May 29.—The St. Lawrence Waterways Treaty will not be pressed at this session of the United States Congress, it is reported in circles close to the administration.

It is believed President Roosevelt discovered by an informal canvass of the situation enough votes, were not assured to get ratification by June 10.

Mr. Roosevelt is also credited with the opinion that debate in the Senate might result in talk which would not assist the administration in negotiating a trade treaty with Canada.

WOMEN IN TORONTO CLASH

Toronto, May 29.—Women pushing baby carriages gave police a lively fifteen minutes Saturday evening when a squad of constables attempted to break up a crowd of red sympathizers in Alexandra Park here.

When one of the ringleaders started to make an address, nine policemen sought to disperse the large crowd, but were obstructed by the women, who pushed the carriages in their way and screamed derisively. One constable was bitten on the arm by a woman, while others were kicked on the shins.

Four women were arrested, but released after questioning.

MANUFACTURERS OPPOSE PLANS

Association of 56,000 Members in U.S. Says Roosevelt's Industrial Bill Mistake

Associated Press
Washington, May 29.—An assertion the Roosevelt administration's industrial recovery bill as it now stands would "retard, rather than promote business recovery" has come from the United States Association of Manufacturers.

James A. Emery, counsel for the association which lists 56,000 manufacturers, announced initiation of a drive to change the measure at Senate finance committee hearings on the legislation this week.

The association protested the proposed legislation would replace private ownership and operation of business with a "governmental bureaucracy," and increase competitive handicaps in home markets by failing to provide import control to correspond to increased prices.

At London Sessions U.S. To Seek Lowering Of World Tariff Levels

But If Nations Do Not Take That Course Roosevelt Will Have Authority to Raise U.S. Tariffs

By F. G. Vashburg, Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, May 29.—A definite United States programme for international action at the World Economic Conference took shape to-day as the delegation—still incomplete—packed trunks for departure toward London Wednesday.

Besides seeking stabilized exchanges and universally lowered trade barriers at London, President Roosevelt's representatives will seek action to accomplish on a world-wide scale what is already under way in the United States.

The United States will endeavor to enlist other nations in the end-price-raising programme—launched through the Roosevelt monetary, farm relief and industrial recovery legislation. The Roosevelt policies are regarded in Washington as requiring either unified international action or a new and highly significant policy of isolation in order that the United States may work out its domestic plan without interference.

NEW LEGISLATION
Accordingly, the administration is equipping itself with legislative measures with which it may either co-operate with the rest of the world, if the other nations are so inclined, or may rear new barriers around the country's far-flung economic frontiers.

The most powerful weapon to be wielded by the United States during the conference is yet to be forged, the administration tariff bill. Indications to-day were that would be two-edged, carrying authority for the executive either to raise tariffs or to lower them. The President plans to send it to Capitol Hill this week.

He was shaved this morning for the first time during the three weeks.

His physicians continued confident he would surely be slowly recover his strength after resuming eating.

M.P.'S MAY GATHER FOR FALL SESSION

Many Easterners Already Home After Prorogation Saturday; Prairie and B.C. Members Homeward Bound To-day

Ottawa, May 29.—With prospects of another session in the fall, many members of parliament to-day were at home, and the others were homeward bound after a session which started seven months and three weeks ago and was marked by a recess from November 25 till January 30.

With a whirlwind finish, Parliament passed the contentious Redistribution Bill late Saturday afternoon and was prorogued in the evening by the Governor-General.

Liberals maintained to the end their opposition to the bill re-mapping the 48 federal constituencies. Several last-minute changes were made by the administration, including one in the riding of Prince Albert, Sask., represented in the House by Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberals.

SMALL VOTE
The vote by which the bill was passed—forty-five to fifteen—was the smallest of the session, due to a large number of members having already left for their homes. Only one Progressive voted, Robert Gardiner, leader of the group, and he cast his vote with the Liberals against the measure.

For the last hour of the sitting.

RANSOM OF $30,000 PAID

Miss McElroy later stated the kidnappers were courtesy itself. She was held in a basement room of the "Kidnap-house." She had an electric fan, music and a clean bed on which she said she slept well throughout Saturday night.

The girl said that while she was a captive, the abductors illustrated for her edification the workings of a machine gun.

One of them gave her roses, while the other provided a detective story magazine to read.

Ransom of $50,000 had been demanded at first. News of the kidnapping was withheld until the girl's safety was assured. The abductors had threatened to kill her if police or newspaper were notified.

The newspapers learned of the abduction shortly after it had been carried out, but published nothing until she was safe.

Two unmasked gunmen forced Miss McElroy to leave her bath on Saturday, dress and accompany them in a large sedan. They had entered the house by brushing boldly past a maid. They passed as cosmetic salesmen.

The criminals established contact with the McElroy home by letters and telephone. The letters, signed by the abducted girl, were delivered at the McElroy home.

WOODIN NOT TO QUIT POST

Expected to Continue as Secretary of U.S. Treasury Despite Morgan-Inquiry

Associated Press
Washington, May 29.—President Roosevelt is going to keep William H. Woodin at the United States Treasury despite the clamor that he be ousted since his name was found on a list of J. P. Morgan and Company's preferred customers.

Furthermore, the President intends to keep intact his whole official family, cabinet and assistants, to administer the unparalleled powers conferred on him and then to combat the economic emergency. He trusts his present aides and does not want to make shifts.

All this, and specifically the news on Mr. Woodin, developed at the end of Mr. Roosevelt's week-end cruise down the Potomac.

As he stepped ashore, Mr. Woodin was met by newspapermen, who had just one question. It answered them: "I have not resigned."

Mr. Woodin told newspapermen he had discussed with the President the fact that his name had been on the favored subscriber list of J. P. Morgan and Company, before he became Secretary of the Treasury, allowing the purchase of stock at bargain prices.

He left no doubt he would be willing to leave his office if it should appear his continued presence there would in any way hinder the progress he feels is being made in national improvement.

CRIMINAL CODE IS AMENDED

Ottawa, May 29.—A joint committee of the Commons and Senate Saturday agreed on an amendment to the Criminal Code which had caused dispute between the two houses for a week. It was later passed by both houses a short time before prorogation. There are several clauses designed to strengthen the act. The section in dispute referred to the demoralization of children through the acts of their parents or guardians.

The original section was thought to leave too much room for argument as to the extent certain actions might be presumed to affect the morals of children.

The amendment agreed on reads as follows: "In any prosecution under subsection two of section three, where circumstances are such as in the opinion of the court to render it likely that the child might be in danger of becoming immoral, its morals injuriously affected, or its honor rendered an unfit place for it to be in, it shall, on proof that the person accused did in the home of such child, participate in adultery, in sexual immorality, in habitual drunkenness, or in other forms of vice, be an irrebuttable presumption that the child was, in fact, in danger of being or becoming immoral, and its morals injuriously affected, and that its honor had in fact been rendered an unfit place for it to be in."

PRISONERS ESCAPE; MANY RECAPTURED

Tokio, May 29.—A Rengo (Japanese) news agency dispatch from Changchun, Manchuria, yesterday reported 200 Chinese prisoners, mostly political prisoners, had effected a wholesale delivery from the Manchukuo jail at Changchun.

The prisoners were said to have overpowered the guards and smashed doors and windows to make their escape.

Two of the Chinese were slain and forty-six recaptured. One prison guard was killed when the break occurred.

EXCITING TIME ON MILK WAR FRONT

This serious clash between Wisconsin milk strikers and civilian-garbed national guardsmen, in which tear gas, clubs and rocks were freely used, resulted in a hurry call to military units of the state militia. This picture was taken near Shawana at the height of the battle, in which several were wounded and 200 taken prisoners and held for a short time. It shows guardsmen-deputies, wearing gas masks, advancing behind their barrage of tear bombs.

ONE OF THE LONGEST SESSIONS ENDS

The session of the Canadian Parliament which came to an end on Saturday was one of the longest on record. It began nearly eight months ago, adjourned in the last week of November until January 30, and since then has been at its labors continuously.

The most contentious and most important legislation passed was the Redistribution Bill which defines the boundaries of the 245 federal constituencies for the next ten years. It is the general practice of the government in office to adjust the electoral map with the object of obtaining as much political advantage from the procedure as possible. Mr. Mackenzie King and his followers bitterly criticized the Prime Minister and accused him of "gerrymandering"—adjusting many ridings in such a way as to give the Conservatives a better chance of victory at the next general election. Even the impartial observer, however, will not attach a great deal of importance to the opposition leader's objections, for the reason that when Mr. Bennett goes to the country next year—or the year following at the latest—he will be confronted with all the promises he made in 1930 and pointedly asked why he did not fulfill them. He will have a difficult job to explain his case convincingly.

Another important piece of legislation approved by Parliament was that which provides a new form of executive for the Canadian National Railways and establishes a means of co-operation between that system and the Canadian Pacific Railway. Instead of a board of directors, the government-owned road will have a board of three trustees who will be responsible for the administration of the system. One of the changes effected in the original draft of the bill was a definite provision prohibiting amalgamation of the C.N.R. and the C.P.R. The clause was proposed by the opposition, and the fact that it was accepted by the government was added proof that the Prime Minister adheres to his publicly-expressed promise that there would be "amalgamation never, competition ever." That the two executive officers are getting together in the interests of economy until revenues increase is reflected by the fact that a number of duplicated services have been consolidated. It is essentially a railway, not a political, problem, and many of its intricate features can be dealt with only by railway experts.

Unfortunately the session just ended brought its quota of new taxes. At a time when they are less able than ever to stand the drain, the governmental hand is going farther down into the pockets of the taxpayers. One of the most unpopular and least warranted taxes was the two-cents-a-pound-tax on sugar. To the housewife who is still finding it extremely difficult to make ends meet, who had been advised through government propaganda to do as much preserving as possible while fruit was cheap, this came as a shock. And the Minister of Finance will have found out long before he presents his next budget that the revenue he expected to collect from this tax will be very far short of his estimate. While the sugar tax struck the kitchen, the tax on toilet requisites, including ordinary soap, hit both kitchen and bathroom. In fact the present government at Ottawa has won the laurel for the imposition of nuisance taxes.

As more or less of a formality, but not without criticism that was quite justified, the agreements reached at the Imperial Economic Conference were approved, as was a new trade pact with France, while, acting on the powers conferred by Parliament, the trading arrangement with New Zealand was extended for six months. New Zealand, of course, is far from satisfied with the treaty. Its butter is practically barred from this country, and butter is the principal commodity that Dominion has to offer Canada in exchange for our manufactured products.

An interesting feature of the closing days of the session was the announcement from the Prime Minister that it was the government's "considered opinion" the resolution of a former Parliament which asked the King to confer no more titles on Canadians was not binding on the present Parliament. The House was not given an opportunity of expressing itself on the subject and the country has yet to learn what the sequel of Mr. Bennett's pronouncement will be. The King's birthday is on Saturday. Query: Will the traditional honors list contain the name of the Canadian Prime Minister or any of his friends?

Apart from the changes necessitated by the empire treaties, the tariff was left severely alone. Mr. Bennett and his former high-protectionist followers evidently have seen the error of their ways. The Prime Minister even declared that he was prepared to discuss any proposal from Washington looking to a new trading arrangement between Canada and the United States. This is all to the good, and every taxpayer of this country will hope Mr. Bennett and his former high-protectionist followers evidently have seen the error of their ways. The Prime Minister even declared that he was prepared to discuss any proposal from Washington looking to a new trading arrangement between Canada and the United States. This is all to the good, and every taxpayer of this country will hope Mr. Bennett and his former high-protectionist followers evidently have seen the error of their ways.

In connection with the tariff, incidentally, the chairman of the newly-created Tariff Board was treated to a stroke of good luck. Before his body had even held a session, his salary was increased from $12,000 a year to $15,000 a year—this at a time when economy is supposed to be the watch-word of all governments, which has to be the watch-word of every wage earner!

Once more the government refused the advice of the leader of the opposition—that it appoint a competent, non-partisan national commission to advise it upon the vital problem of unemployment. Instead of which the blank cheque has been renewed.

However, it is to be hoped that the signs of business revival, now beginning to manifest themselves, will grow continually more definite, and that the nations which will send representatives to the forthcoming London conference will work out a new economic deal which will put the world straight and keep it straight in every way.

EXTENDING THE SETTLEMENT AREAS IN QUEBEC

Under the provincial government's back-to-the-land movement in Quebec eight thousand families comprising 40,000 persons have been colonized. Including roads, bridges, and drainage the cost was about $2,500,000, of which $500,000 was charged to unemployment relief account.

The chief objective of the scheme is the development of new districts in the hinterland of the province and to expand the settlement areas. It is essentially domestic colonization. The provincial government provides new schools for the settlers, paying the whole cost of their maintenance. The areas under colonization are divided into six districts, each under a supervisor. A system of direct relief is in operation to provide such necessities as the settlers are unable to obtain for themselves.

These facts, says The Winnipeg Tribune, afford a certain contrast with the back-to-the-land movements organized as part of the relief programmes in other provinces. The difference is largely a matter of objective. Quebec is frankly rooted in the soil; the culture of the other provinces is rooted in the idea of progress. The patience and the humble aspirations of the habitant are a great asset in times like these, but "if we remember correctly they were also a great asset in more prosperous times." The fable of the hare and tortoise provides an illuminating analogy here.

"Yet," The Tribune goes on, "there is no shortage of people in Manitoba and other provinces who are willing and anxious to go back to the land on almost any terms. The fact that only some 200 families have been placed in Manitoba is due to the lack of anything corresponding to the official energy and enthusiasm shown by Quebec's colonization department under the direction of Hon. Hector Laferte, K.C."

AS ONE PREMIER SAID, "WHERE ARE WE AT?"

The electorate of British Columbia must find it difficult to keep up with that series of lightning changes inaugurated by the Talmie government almost a year ago; and the government must have difficulty in keeping up with them itself. Sometimes we wonder whether the government has not dropped a little behind. Sometimes, indeed, after Mr. Twigg has made important announcements for the Premier, and the Premier has repudiated and publicly spanked Mr. Twigg, and Mr. Bruhn has withdrawn the withdrawal of his latest resignation, and Mr. Jones has told the electors of his riding that, although a cabinet minister, he is running independently—sometimes we suspect that the government is really more in need of enlightenment about the government's plans than is the electorate.

The latest announcement in this series is that the government will produce a new platform and a new policy in the near future. Why a government with a three-to-one majority could not have inaugurated this policy or implemented any platform whatever during five years of office will doubtless be explained in another announcement from the Premier or Mr. Twigg. The interesting point at the moment is the identity of the platform-builders and the policy-makers. Whom do they represent? Whose platform are they going to produce?

Surely it can not be the platform of the Conservative party, because it has held no convention to frame one; not the platform of the Conservative members of the Legislature, because they have never considered it; not the platform of a union government, because there is none. Obviously, therefore, it is to be the platform of the government as at present constituted, of that great union between the remains of the Conservative party and Hon. Mr. Dennies, which, so far, has been fertile in words only.

This method of preparing a platform, which binds no party, which represents no group but only eleven cabinet ministers, is an interesting development in our parliamentary system. We think it is native and unique to these shores. But it is no more surprising than the latest method of nominating candidates for election. The Premier is nominated by his Conservative friends in Saanich, after taking the precaution at the last moment to pass a resolution declaring that they are not Conservatives any more but Unionists—a generous term, wide enough to cover not only the Premier but most of the Conservative members who have repudiated him.

Mr. Bowser, for his part, becomes leader of a party without any convention at all, without a vote, without a platform and without a policy.

Mr. Davie calmly announces that he is Mr. Bowser's candidate in Cowichan-Newcastle, although the people of Cowichan-Newcastle have never been consulted.

Another gentleman does the same thing in Columbia and a third in Similkameen. In Kamloops, Mr. Bowser invites Mr. Tom McBride to be his candidate without the tiresome formality of a convention of any sort.

This simplification of our political system, this rough-and-ready democracy, is indeed refreshing in these dull times. We can only think of one more step which would make it more simple, more ready and rougher—that is for Dr. Talmie, Unionist candidate in Saanich, to make it clear beyond question that he is running quite independently of the Conservative Talmie government.

GREATER CARE BY MOTORISTS

Drivers in Victoria Interested in Series of Tests Arranged By Imperial Oil Limited

Bus drivers in London and Paris must now go through extensive tests before they can receive operating licenses. These tests are made with scientific devices which produce a standardized record of the driver's qualifications. In order to pass the test, prospective operators are seated in a dark room on a specially constructed chassis having steering wheel, transmission gears and brakes, like an ordinary vehicle. He faces a motion picture screen upon which is shown a film of moving traffic. The illusion is complete, the driver imagines he is negotiating heavy downtown traffic. The film is specially prepared for the purpose, and so in the space of a few minutes all the complex problems facing the average driver move in upon him with the usual speed and continuity.

It is said that even the hardest old-timers come through this new test with a profound perspiration and profanity. The purpose of these tests, which might well be obligatory for all classes of motorists, is to discover to what extent they are aware of traffic situations where danger lurks, and how able they are to operate under the circumstances.

A survey of recent litigation before the Canadian courts adjudicating accident cases, proves that most drivers admit frankly that "it all happened in a flash." More important still, there is usually ample evidence uncovered to show that ordinary measures of precaution might have saved the situation.

HABITUAL CAUTION
All authorities dealing with motor traffic are trying to produce among motorists an attitude of habitual caution. They cannot, however, possibly undertake to educate the general public and their efforts are largely those of detection rather than those of prevention.

High commendation is being tendered the Imperial Oil Limited for taking the initiative and for drawing attention to the need for better and safer driving, along the highways of British Columbia. Imperial's current series of large scale "Traffic Problems" are both instructive and entertaining. The series is built on the questions and answers plan. By the aid of an actual traffic situation, a list of questions is asked and on another page the correct answers are given over the signature of a noted traffic authority. Readers can test their own good sense and driving knowledge.

The series should be carefully read by every driver in British Columbia. Not only can it be said to produce among motorists an attitude of habitual caution, but it is a constructive effort such as this on the part of Imperial Oil Limited is entirely worthy inasmuch as it is making a valuable contribution to the safety of drivers and pedestrians everywhere in British Columbia.

NEW SCALE TO SLASH RELIEF

Saanich Will Have to Revise All Lists If Agreement Enforced, Council Warns

Municipal Body Passes Resolution Informing Government of Necessary Action

Failure of the provincial and federal governments to maintain their present scale of contributing one-third towards municipal relief costs will mean drastic reductions and far-reaching revision of the Saanich relief list, it was learned from Reeve William Crouch this morning. At a meeting on Saturday evening, the council ordered a resolution forwarded to the provincial government stating that unless assurances could be given that the present scale would be maintained until the end of July, the relief would have to be cancelled and revised in order that the cost under the new basis would not be greater than at present.

The gravity of the proposed cuts by the provincial and federal governments was outlined by the council by Reeve Crouch in a verbal report which he presented on the meeting of Union of B.C. Municipalities delegates with cabinet officials on Saturday morning.

SYMPATHETIC HEARING
The union representatives were given a sympathetic hearing, the reliever stated, and the cabinet had wholeheartedly supported the request to the federal government to maintain the present basis of contribution be maintained. Unless either the government or the municipalities hear from federal authorities within the next few days, the new plan will go into effect on June 1. On that date it is proposed to have the governments each contribute 20 per cent of relief funds for one month, after which the allowance will be cut to 10 per cent.

Such reductions would greatly increase the municipal proportion of relief to the present standards are maintained. The council, however, decided that this was impossible and if the governments fail to change their attitudes on the matter, serious slashes in relief allowances will follow. The present scale in Saanich provides $2.80 a day for married men.

CANNOT INCREASE SHARE
No intimation was given as to what the cuts would amount to if revision was necessary, but it is felt certain that the municipality cannot increase its appropriation, in which case the allowances would be reduced according to the percentage reductions made by the governments.

"We cannot possibly carry along under the present basis if the governments fail to comply with our request for an extension of the one-third contribution plan until at least the end of July," Reeve Crouch said this morning, "if we do endeavor to keep the present scale, the present government cuts are made, it would only be possible to carry on for two or three months, after which it would be necessary to place some relief altogether during the winter."

MACFARLANE IS GOLF CHAMPION

Veteran Captures Metropolitan Open Tourney With 72-Hole Score of 291

Mamaroneck, N.Y., May 29.—Willie MacFarlane of Tuckahoe, N.Y., United States open titleholder in 1928, who a week ago was asking himself if the time had not come for him to give up the championship play, was on the way back to his home town to capture the Metropolitan open championship. MacFarlane teed off a couple of holes Saturday just when they were most needed to beat a crack field for the championship. He sank six and eight-foot putts for birdie three on the last two holes for a fourth round score of 72, a 72-hole score of 291 and a lead of one stroke over Paul Runyan, White Plains star, who has been named to the 1933 Ryder Cup squad.

Finishing a surprising third with 293 was Dick Metz, Deal, N.J., two strokes in front of California's Olin Dutra, defending champion. United States professional titleholder and, like Runyan, a Ryder Cup team member.

To the Editor:—There is no greater revolution needed to-day than in our educational system. In no department of our social life is progress hindered more, by our adherence to old ideas and traditions, than in the field of education, the transformation of which is vital to our very existence.

The practical working of the educational theories in the state schools does not attain the results hoped for by the working class.

NELLIE BLY AND NELLIE GLOVER

To the Editor:—It always happens that whenever anyone starts a perfectly lovely new project of an old religion and assures the public that it is absolute truth and love, one has to wait and watch, but a little while before finding out that it is not gold that glitters even in religion.

Dear me, Nellie Bly and Nellie Glover told another. I wonder how many have failed to see that this so-called Oxford Group is but a sort of layer cake with a new name? On the one hand it is the old style testimony meeting where our grandpas and grandmas stood up and told of sins forgiven and blessings received. On the other hand, the plan is that there are on this, so perhaps a few of these undesirable entities have been running around loose at the meetings when they were waiting for a sign.

I wonder how Nellie Glover would like this description of many of the towns in her country, which I have recently received from a friend who is visiting there? The description follows: The same old towns, the same old shops selling hot pies with gravy and black peas, trotters and tripe. The same old women in awnings waiting for the fish and chip shops at nearly every corner. Sounds kind of smelly and far from refined doesn't it? But perhaps this Oxford Group gives this kind of place a wide berth when in their own country.

Unlike the Master, whom they profess to follow, who made it his mission to minister to the poor, they would rather travel in comfort to select places, and the better they like it. Why not start a Whitechapel Group with the improvement of the slums of England as its object?

Victoria, May 27.
THE FRIGATE CONSTITUTION

To the Editor:—For the information of those Victorians who may visit the old U.S.N. frigate Constitution during its stay at Port Angeles, I give the following historical notes gathered from my record books.

Mr. R. C. Anderson of the Society for Nautical Research, who for many years was the editor of its journal, The Mariner's Mirror, says in The Morning Post of November 16, 1931 that the frigate Constitution was the implacable (formerly the French Duc de Guis) by three years. The Constitution was launched at Boston, U.S.A. in 1797, while the Duc de Guis, now implacable, is lying moored in the upper harbor at Port Angeles, being used as a training ship for sea cadets.

My records further say that the Constitution was taken in hand for restoration in 1927 and it is estimated that only 15 per cent of her original timbers remain, on the other hand, she was launched at Chatham in 1765, and remained afloat until January 12, 1922, when she entered number two drydock at the Naval Yard, where she is still berthed to-day, and restored to the condition as at Trafalgar. Though she is no longer afloat, yet she is still a commissioned ship, and moreover, she is the flagship of the commander-in-chief of Portsmouth.

The naval superintendent of The Morning Post states on November 11, 1931, that the palm for sheer longevity is held by the ketch Ceres, which, so far as is at present known, is the oldest vessel in active service. She was built at Salcombe, Devonshire, in 1811, and is thus 120 years old (in 1931). She began trading to northern Spain, and more than once had narrow escapes from French and American privateers. In 1813 and 1814 she was employed by the government carrying stores for Wellington's Peninsular War operations. Capt. R. W. Peberwick, who is her skipper to-day, has commanded her for over fifty years. She was altered in rig in 1865, and subsequently was cut down and lengthened by fifteen feet, being registered forty-four tons and carrying eighty-five tons. In 1912 she was successfully transformed to a motor ship. She is the last of a thirty horsepower semi-Diesel engine.

That the Ceres is standing the test of time is evident from the fact that in the last five years she has carried over forty cargoes of slag and thirty of flour without damage. In October, 1927, she made nine passages between Bude and Cardiff and Port Talbot, her record number for any ship. In 1930 this old ship passed her four-year Board of Trade survey.

My records give the particulars of other remarkable ships and vessels, but I will follow your constant request, Mr. Editor, and keep my letter as short as possible.

The chairman of the committee explained to the deputation that the regulations relating to the permission of farmers to shoot deer on their own land in defence of growing crops were drafted in ignorance of the existence of provisions conflicting with their (the committee's) intentions. ## HEALTH DAY AT LANGFORD

Attractive Programme of Sports Arranged For Thursday

The sixth annual health day will be held Thursday, June 1. Health day was first instituted in Canada by the Equimait Rural Nursing Association, starting at 1:30 o'clock on Thursday. A good programme of field sports will be held in grounds on Goldstream Road under the direction of L. B. Matthews, principal of the Happy Valley school. Picked teams from the pupils of Shirley, Sooke, Happy Valley and Luxton, Goldstream and Langford schools will take part, the highest number of points obtaining the R. T. Van de Byl cup for boys, now held by Langford, while the girls compete for a cup donated by Mrs. Herbert Fendray, also won last year by Langford.

The Dola Dunsmuir poster shield, now held by Langford school, will be awarded to the school exhibiting the two best posters. The outstanding feature on the sports programme will be the inter-health district one mile relay race for the Vancouver Island health cup, Sanch, Cowichan and Equimait teams being eligible to take part. Tea and ice cream will be served during the afternoon under the auspices of the Langford Women's Institute, the proceeds from the tea being devoted to the funds of the solarium. At 6 o'clock presentation of trophies and prizes will take place. Dr. H. B. Young, Provincial Health Officer, and honorary president of the Equimait Rural Nursing Society will be present.

SCOUT NEWS

CADBORO BAY SEA SCOUTS
The regular meeting of the Cadboro Bay Sea Scouts was held on Friday, P. Harwood gave the boys instructions on the anchor, and afterwards the crews retired to their quarters. Final teams for the rally on June 3 were chosen. The boys are practicing for the first sea scout display to be shown here.

Scoutmaster J. B. Hardinge presented a model ship to the honor patrol instead of an honor flag, as the flag will be used on the boys' boat soon. Colonel Sharland, of Cadboro Bay, has donated a set of signalling flags, a compass, a Union Jack and a Red Ensign to the troop. These were greatly appreciated. A baseball game was held at Cadboro Bay on Saturday with the St. Luke's Troop, the game resulting in a tie, 9 to 9. The Seals are duty patrol this week.

In connection with the Victoria district scout rally next Saturday a church parade will be held at Christ Church Cathedral on Sunday morning. All scout troops and cub packs will assemble at the district headquarters, 1034 Johnson Street, at 9:15 o'clock without colors, and move off shortly afterwards, arriving at the cathedral for the service which will commence at 9:45 o'clock. There will be no collection at the service. All scoutmasters and cubmasters are asked to have their troops and packs turn out in full strength if possible.

KITSILANO BOYS' BAND RETURNING

Will Be Here on Saturday and Play at City Temple

So many requests have been received that the Kitsilano Boys' Band play a return engagement in Victoria that Dr. Clem Davies announces he has arranged for the boys to give another concert at the City Temple on Saturday next. At the last appearance of the band held by Langford a few weeks ago, practically every organist and bandmaster in the city was present, and were outspoken in their praise of the remarkable skill and musical ability of the boys. The adjudicators of the recent musical festivals in Victoria and Vancouver also praised their playing in the highest terms. The next engagement is not only to provide another opportunity for music lovers of this city to hear them, but is also part of an endeavor to raise a fund with which to send the boys to Chicago this summer, there to compete at the Century of Progress Exhibition for the world's junior championship.

WILL ADVERTISE LIQUOR

Winnipeg, May 29 (Canadian Press).—After an absence of three years, liquor advertising is to be permitted in Manitoba. The Manitoba government liquor control commission has rescinded the order banning liquor advertisements.

GRAPHIC STORIES IN "LEGION LOGIC"

Victoria and district branches of the Canadian Legion have completed plans for the publication of a book called "Legion Logic," which will tell graphic stories of the "Unknown Legion" and give wide publicity to the achievements of the national organization which started its career in Victoria in 1918, when eleven returned citizens formed the first association in Canada of veterans of the Great War, under the name of the Returned Soldiers' Association.

Information concerning facilities of all kinds provided for veterans by the Dominion and provincial governments will be a valuable feature. Articles on Victoria and Vancouver Island will make attractive reading for outsiders and it is hoped, help to develop the district. The book, which will be printed in Victoria, will have an attractive cover printed in four colors, and will consist of not less than 100 pages. The editor is a veteran, and the book will have an assured circulation of 10,000.

YOUNG PEOPLE TO PRESENT COMEDY

A concert and one-act play will be presented by the Young People's Society of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock in the schoolroom of the church. The musical part of the programme will be contributed to by soprano, Miss Denton; tenor, E. Durrant; violin, G. Marjison; dance numbers, Miss Batchelor, who will give a minuet and a Mexican tap dance. Mrs. W. G. H. Firth will be accompanist. The one-act play, "Thirty Minutes for Refreshments," centres around the unfortunate circumstances of a bride who has lost her groom. This is the first play to be given by the organization for a number of years. The following young people will take part: Misses Connie Barlow, Leslie Bravender and Thora Ridout; Bill and Bob Milliken, Fred Robinson and George A. Warren.

The executive of the Metchosin Sheep Breeders' Association, owing to the donations made by friends of the industry, have been able to add a class for mature grade ewes in the show to be held at Metchosin June 14. The special prize will be from the B.C. Sheep Breeders' Association at Kamloops, with the usual second and third prizes. As in the other classes, type and conformation will be the points judged. Knight of the provincial department of agriculture, will judge the wool classes and shearing contests. In the latter there will be four contests, professional and novice in machine shearing and professional and novice for hand shearing, with a $5 cash prize as first award in each event. A 25-pound and a 24-pound sack of flour will be the second and third prizes. The guessing contest, guessing the weight of a mature ewe, will furnish amusement as well as keen competition, with attractive prizes for the three persons guessing the correct weight. This contest will be under the direction of W. A. Burt and Miss Nora Neilsen.

In the handicraft section, presided over by Mrs. Fergus Reid, twenty attractive prizes will be offered, with Mrs. E. Simmonds judging. ## NANAIMO NOTES

Special to The Times
Nanaimo, May 29.—Frank Pendleton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Pendleton, Red Gap, Nanaimo Bay, sustained slight head injuries Saturday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile driven by George Sheed, Alberni, near Williams's Store, Nanaimo. It appears that a group of six boys were practicing drill for the Nanaimo parade and had a mark on the road at which they made a left turn at the bugle call. Just as they did so the car was right behind them and they turned right in front of it. Pendleton was hit on the head by the radiator cap and knocked down. The fact that Mr. Sheed was driving slowly prevented what might have been a serious accident.

While returning from work Saturday afternoon on his motorcycle, Tony Commensucci suffered collision with a truck driven by John Tytus of Haliburton Street, and sustained a broken leg in two places, injuries to the hip, facial injuries, his chin being badly gashed and bruises around his right eye. He was conveyed to the local hospital. The truck was overturned and the passengers, J. Sikuro, guests of Mrs. Norton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Baxter.

MEALTIME SHOULD BE A PLEASANT CEREMONY

Punishment connected with eating, forcing food, or disreputable scenes at mealtime inevitably encourage a feeling of distaste for eating that should be loath to build up. Mrs. D. says her eighteen-month-old daughter has taken a sudden dislike to certain vegetables—aspargus, peas, green beans and cauliflower. She eats spinach and vegetable soup nicely.

LET HER GO HUNGRY?

"Should I let her go hungry or offer her the rest of the meal?" asks this mother. "If I omit the remainder of the meal, shall I offer the vegetables again at night and give her nothing until she eats them? Would teaching her anything about this? How many words does the average child of this age have in the vocabulary? She has about twelve words and I have been told she is slow in talking."

"I still boil her milk and add two tablespoonfuls of corn-syrup to a quart of milk. Unboiled milk coagulates her. Can she have sugar in her food?"

RESPECT HER LIKES

By no means make the eating of vegetables a punishment to her. Offer those she likes. When you serve others which she does not eat, make no comment. Children will learn to like various foods if the mother shows no emotion about the rejection of offered dishes. The teaching might affect her future appetite; so avoid scenes by offering foods that she does like and will eat with relish. The important thing is that she eat each meal with pleasure. She cannot do this if you eat vegetables to such an exalted position, and punish her for not eating them.

Slight teething in a rather commonplace among young children. Do nothing at all about it now. Gesell, in "Growth of the Pre-school Child" gives ninety-three words and thirty-eight phrases as an average of the language ability of fifty-eight-month-old children.

Continue to boil the milk, but you need add no syrup. If you give some sugar on cereal, some in puddings and fruit sauces, as would be a natural manner of preparation, the child ought to get enough of this nutritious and laxative element without adding it to the milk.

Gymkhana and Pet Parade To Be Spectacular Features

Practically every child, and most grown-ups, have pets, whether they be dogs, cats, ponies, tortoises, or any other of the bird or animal species upon which human beings lavish their affection. In order to see just what variety of pets Victoria can produce, a pet parade is being staged at the Willows on June 14, in conjunction with the grand gymkhana in aid of the Women's Workroom. A variety of classes is being arranged to ensure the fullest representation, and three prizes will be awarded in each section. Miss Ines Carey, Rockland Avenue, is in charge of the pet parade. For the gymkhana well-known riders from all parts of Vancouver Island are being entered, including representatives of the naval and military services and of the police.

Baptist C.G.I.T. Held Mother and Daughter Affair

The Canadian Girls in Training of the Emmanuel Baptist Church, together with their leaders, entertained at a mother and daughter banquet on Friday evening. There were 110 present, including the mothers, representatives from the various departments of the church. Also invited were Mrs. W. P. Freeman, representing the Baptist Girls' Work in Victoria; Mrs. A. J. Daniels, representing the United Church; Miss Susan Moore, the Anglican Church; and Miss Winifred Uehari, the Presbyterian Church. Representatives from the Baptist churches included Miss Minnie Beveridge, director of girls' work of the First Baptist Church; and the president, Jennie Reynolds. Miss Mildred Beall and Margaret MacKinnon from Douglas Street Baptist, and Miss Ethel Rhodes and Molly Court from Shelburne Street Baptist. The guest of honor was Miss Anne Fountain, B.A., the Provincial Girls' Work Secretary.

The theme for the banquet was "Sharers in the Quest," the girls carrying out the theme in their table decorations. The senior group table represented the quest of knowledge; the intermediate group, the quest of beauty; the junior group, the quest of service; and the guest table, "Life's Pilgrimage." After the supper hour all joined in a sing song, led by Miss Parfitt. Winnie Waites, the President of the C.G.I.T. Department, presided over the gathering in a most efficient manner and on behalf of the girls extended a welcome to the mothers and guests.

Miss Lilian Parfitt, director of the Girls' Work at Emmanuel, introduced the guests, after which greetings from the church were brought by Geo. Waites, chairman of the deacons' board. The guest of honor, Miss Anne Fountain, B.A., the Provincial Girls' Council were brought by Phyllis Baylis, the president, and greetings from the Girls' Leaders' Council by Miss Gladys Beall, the chairman. Miss E. Thornley, of the Victorian Order of Nurses, presented certificates to Sylvia and Helen Falchen in recognition of their papers written on "Mothercraft," and Mrs. Wm. Russell, president of the Emmanuel Baptist Women's Mission Church, awarded the prize for the best scrap book depicting Canadian life to Vera Parfitt.

A short playlet, entitled "Mother," was given by some of the girls with Miss Nan Clements and Opal Abercrombie taking the principal parts; this was followed by the singing of "The Quest" by Grace Zala. The theme "Sharers in the Quest" was introduced by Miss Lilian Parfitt, and short talks were given in keeping with the theme. Mary Hancock spoke on "What I Share With My Group"; Mrs. D. Smith, leader of the Intermediate Group, spoke on "What I Share With My Girls." "C.G.I.T. Sharing the Life of the Church" was given by Elsie Cross. "Trusts and C.G.I.T. Sharing the Quest" by Ormand Marjions and "Sharing With My Daughters" by Mrs. W. P. Freeman.

Miss Anne Fountain reached the climax of the theme in her inspirational address in which she spoke of girlhood, dealing with her many problems, her relationship to her family and to the Church, closing with "The Parable of Girlhood." The evening was very fittingly brought to a close with the "quest ceremony" under the direction of Mrs. Percy Miles, leader of the Junior group, with Edna Scoble taking the part of the vision, Sylvia Falchen, the knight, and Patsy Murphy, the C.G.I.T. girl. Dr. Wm. Russell pronounced the benediction, after which a friendship circle was formed and "Tape" was sung.

At the close a vote of thanks was extended to the graduate C.G.I.T. girls who assisted with the serving. Misses Rosamund Parfitt, Kathleen Armstrong, Dolly Pettit, Annie Rhodes, Margaret Hepp, Bertha Waites and Marion Jamieson.

FEWER WOMEN WORKERS NOW

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, May 29.—After the war the question was often asked: "Well, what won't women be doing next?" The answer, as given by the 1930 census, is that the situation thus far remains unchanged.

Women hold a larger share of the jobs in 1930 than in 1920, an analysis by the federal Women's Bureau shows. There were 2,302,000 more of them at work.

But in all that ten years they had not crept in on any of the pursuits previously held exclusively by men. They even gave up a few in post-war days. There were only twenty-three occupations not followed by any woman the census-takers could find in 1920, and there were thirty of them in 1930. These are some of the jobs no woman has ever held in so far as the government knows:

Boiler-maker, puddler, structural ironworker, brakeman, locomotive engineer or fireman, railroad conductor, fireman in a fire department, soldier sailor or marine.

Nor in 1930 were there any women working as bus conductors, hostlers, waiters or waitresses, railroad conductors, road yardmen—though some had such jobs ten years before.

Somewhere in the country, however, there are 188 women lumbermen, 19,200 actresses as compared with only 18,703 actors, thirty-seven bootblacks, fifty-seven cemetery keepers, eighty-seven hunters, trappers and guides, and 1,940 undertakers.

Here are some more facts and figures about working women as of April, 1930:

There were 38,000,000 men gainfully occupied and 10,750,000 women, which means only 354 men to every 100 women instead of 397 ten years previously.

The male population over ten years old increased by 18 per cent while the females increased by 20½ per cent. Working women gained 25 per cent in numbers while working men gained only 15 per cent.

Twenty-two per cent of women over ten years were working.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

©1933 BY HER SERVICE, INC.

When the "liberty" movement started in honor of our children some years ago, many of us sat back and said, "We shall reserve our decision until this batch of babies grows up. Like war and social reform, the real results cannot be computed for some fifteen years or so to come."

And now we are getting results. I mean real results. The antics of the well-known generation, post-war, the silly flapper and the devilish young man, was something different. True, it was a "liberty" movement too, but it was of their own. It was a deliberate direct revolt against the narrow and grim Victorian authority for which few people could blame them.

The matter I refer to here is different. I am speaking of the cult that started with Freud, that canonized personal freedom and put a curse on authority. It preached to parents the creed that babies in the cradle should then and thereafter be allowed to do as they please in order to prevent inhibitions and inferiority.

EXTREMES ARE DANGEROUS

Now, those writers like myself who saw the dangers of the two extremes, over-nagging and too much strictness against its opposite, liberty that was license, have been in a difficult position. For parents are too likely to use either one method or the other, and we had to stand between.

Several times I have used the simile of the circle. The child should be allowed to develop and helped to develop along his own lines, but inside a circle over which he must not dare to step. The circle must be big enough so that he won't feel like a calf tied to a tree, but that circle must be there!

Now to-day I not only wish to emphasize that circle again but I am going to print some big words around it. "The Fear of God, the Law and the Prophets."

The parent may interpret that as he likes. He may leave out part or all of it and just put in the words "Respect for Authority," or "Take Heed of Other People's Rights, Life and Property."

You see the results of too much liberty are here and we can now speak of such parents who chose the "License Method" as in so many cases living to regret it. They must wonder, as I wonder, why so many young people of from twelve to eighteen years of age have no respect for anything or anybody on earth. The country teems with them. Some are criminals, but the majority are known as "just no good."

In trying to conquer unholy fears we have overstepped ourselves and conquered the holy ones also.

RETRIBUTION IS CERTAIN

A good healthy fear of overstepping his rights needs to be planted in every child's heart. If not he will suffer because in the end it will ruin him. Just as defiance of a good parent will kill him if he breaks the law of gravity and steps off.

Natural law, social law and moral law all demand retribution of some sort when broken. Natural law knows no leniency. We break our necks, or we drown, or we smother if we step out of its circle.

Children who do not turn into criminals if this is made part of them. Parents have a battle to wage these days against social conditions and crime. It is a hard battle at best, but to neglect social training is to go over to the enemy.

Horoscope

TUESDAY, MAY 30, 1933

Benevolent aspects to-day contend with those of adverse influence, according to astrology. It is a day for caution.

Good news may be brought in the daily papers to-day. Unexpected good luck for the nation appears to be foreseen.

This is a fortunate day for all branches of advertising and for personal publicity or propaganda relating to plans or policies.

Lawyers again are well directed by the stars, which presage for two men in public life a reconciliation of their differences.

Old persons to-day are likely to be succeeded to a way that inclines toward criticism and dissatisfaction. However, their counsel will be less pessimistic next month, the stars forecast.

Farmers may find this a disappointing rule of the stars since delays in plans may be a bit irritating. Astrologers, however, read good luck that comes a bit slowly but surely.

Labor organizations are likely to be affected by an adverse figure that may be unfortunate if its influence is not overcome.

Dictatorial inclinations may be prevalent among heads of many organizations in industry, but the stars seem to forecast favorable adjustment.

The evening of this day is most promising for those who find joy in friendship as well as in romance.

This is read as a lucky day for entering into engagements to marry, unless the fiancée be much older than the girl he would wed.

Persons whose birthdays it is have the assurance that their future is bright and that relatives may contribute.

Children born on this day probably will be serious in nature and strong in character. Subjects of this sign succeed through determined effort.

Alfred Austin, eminent English poet and critic, was born on this day, 1833.

CHAPTER I

The first movement was complicated, and, being the first, is probably worth describing. Afterward, when there was time to think, Martin Forbes went back to it himself.

He had come to the Alhambra to-night at the suggestion of Babe Jennings. She was going to be there, she said, and if she gave him the high sign he was to take it as permission to cut in on her partner and dance with her. Martin took a partly professional interest in Babe. She had a very good job on his paper as an advertiser, but she had an avocation which he was given to understand was even more lucrative. She was more or less on the staff of the Alhambra. She was what might be called a professional nice girl.

Men in pursuit of vice didn't come to the Alhambra. It wasn't that sort of place. But lots of men did come who wanted a girl to dance with and take out to supper, a girl whose deportment, though not prim, would still reflect credit upon her companion; a girl who, if she liked you, wouldn't mind you holding her hand in a taxi as you took her home, nor your kissing her good night when you got her there. Well, Babe was one of the girls who supplied this demand.

To the fiction writer, which Martin meant to be, she ought to prove a mine of variegated raw material. Even for his present job she was worth cultivating, he thought. His specialty was feature stories. Sometimes the city editor sent him out on assignment, but mostly they let him alone to pick things up for himself. He hadn't known whether or not Babe had anything special in mind in suggesting that he drop around at the Alhambra to-night, but he didn't much care. He had a hunch that he was going to pick up some sort of story between now and bedtime.

At the moment, however, he wasn't thinking about his story. He was wondering vaguely whether he hadn't discovered a new law of physics. Was your reputation to the man you saw a pretty girl dancing with directly proportionate to your attraction to the girl?

There was nothing glaringly wrong about the bird. He might be something less than forty. He had a meaty-looking face, with a complacent smile on it, and his dress was a bit foppish. He danced well, but you could see he felt he was giving the little girl a treat. No, there was no law about it. Martin would have hated him anywhere.

Just as the music stopped they turned so that he could see the girl's face, and, in sheer pleased surprise, it was like a head-on collision, for her look met his absolutely true. There was a substratum of smile about it, but above that there was a sort of half-serious desperation that had reference, Martin was sure, to the man she'd been dancing with.

"Want to be rescued?" Martin asked, safely enough, since she stood twenty paces off and he didn't, of course, speak the words aloud.

But, exactly as if she'd heard him, she perceptibly nodded her head, and then looked up at her partner, who had spoken to her.

"Leap the instant you're looked," was one of Martin's mottoes, and he set himself in motion across the floor to where she stood without pausing to wonder whether he hadn't imagined that nod, or what the consequences would be if he had. Had he ever seen her before? Was that why he had smiled at her? Well, he was in for it now.

He touched her companion on the arm—a very solid arm—and said, "May I cut in?"

From the way they both flashed around him you'd have said he'd surprised them equally. But in her face, which was the only one he looked at, there dawned a delighted recognition that would have convinced anybody.

"I thought I saw you just a minute ago," she said. Then, to the man she was abandoning, "You'll excuse us, won't you? It's literally forever since we've had a dance together."

Forbes felt himself wearing an indecently broad grin as he danced away with her over that "literally forever" of hers. She had told the blighter the exact truth!

"I didn't know anything like this could happen," he said, after they'd danced in silence about half-way around the floor, "and I don't know yet how it did happen. It's more like a perfectly gorgeous dream than anything else."

"Don't wake up, then," she said. "It was an easy injunction to obey. Whether she was a perfect dancer for all the world or had been specially created for him, he didn't know. He might consider it later, but it wasn't worth speculating about now. They merely danced."

When, disengaged, they stood looking at each other he said, almost reverently, "Gosh!" and her faintly audible sigh expressed the same thing.

"Do you have to go back?" he protested. "—To him, I mean."

"To Mr. Lewis? No, I don't have to go back to anybody," she smiled faintly as she said that.

He was thrown out of his stride for a second by a pleasant perception that she knew how to pronounce the name "Lewis."

"Well then, why . . ." he began when he got on the rails again.

Uncle Wiggly Surprises His Wife

(By Howard R. Garis)

Uncle Wiggly and his muskrat lady housekeeper were roller skating together through the woods. There was a hard dirt path amid the trees and it was nearly as smooth as your sidewalk.

"How are you making out, Nurse Jane?" asked Mr. Longears as he rolled along for a while on his left paw and then on his right.

"I think I'm doing very well for an old muskrat lady who hasn't roller skated since she was very little," laughed Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"You are doing very well," chuckled Mr. Longears.

"But what will your wife say?" asked Nurse Jane.

"She will say the same—that you are a good skater."

"Oh, but I mean what will she say about you—hopping off the way you did to get roller skates when she didn't want you to?" asked Nurse Jane.

"And she sent me after you to stop you. But you and the store dog made me put on roller skates almost before I knew what was happening. Oh, what will your wife say?"

"—To him, I mean."

"To Mr. Lewis? No, I don't have to go back to anybody," she smiled faintly as she said that.

He was thrown out of his stride for a second by a pleasant perception that she knew how to pronounce the name "Lewis."

"Well then, why . . ." he began when he got on the rails again.

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

Because strawberries are one of the first fruits of the summer canning and preserving campaign, we usually welcome them enthusiastically. We can take care of them early in the season before the rush of canning and jelly-making begins and the rows of canned and preserved fruit promises delicious additions to winter meals.

On account of their acidity, strawberries are very easy to can in the home kitchen. They will keep if canned by the old-fashioned open-kettle method but they lose some of their vitamin C content, the steam making begins and the rows of canned and preserved fruit promises delicious additions to winter meals.

The fruit should be perfectly ripe but not the least bit overripe. Bruised and blemished berries must be trimmed and made usable because the canning and preserving processes cannot correct any imperfections in the fruit.

Strawberries canned according to the following rule are unusually firm and fine flavored.

CANNED STRAWBERRIES

After berries are thoroughly washed, pack them into sterilized jars, adjust tested rubbers and pour medium syrup to cover fruit. Half-seal and process according to rule—quart jars sixteen minutes in hot-water bath, thirty-five minutes in heat regulated oven at 275 degrees F., and pressure cooker at five to ten pounds pressure. Remove jars at end of processing period, fully seal and cool quickly.

Pack the fruit closely but take care not to mash or crush. Fill cans to within one-half inch of top.

To make medium syrup, boil three cups of sugar and two cups of water for five minutes or until syrup clings to spoon. Allow three-fourths cup sugar for each quart can of fruit. Be sure to make enough syrup to fill all cans. Extra syrup can be kept in a glass jar in a cool place until wanted for the next batch of canning.

If the berries are pre-cooked for five minutes before packing in jars shrinkage is prevented. Add no liquid and put fruit over a low fire. Simmer for five minutes. Then add prepared syrup. Remove from fire and let stand eight or ten hours. Pack in sterilized jars and process as usual. This method prolongs the canning operations but the canned berries are excellent.

TO-MORROW'S MENU

Runyan Flattens Clubface on Blast

PAUL RUNYAN EXPLODES

BY JOE GLASS

Star players generally play blasting shots with a slicing swing. That is, they bring the clubhead into the ball, when exploding from a sandtrap, from outside the direction line.

As a preliminary to the average explosion shot, they open the face of their niblick, or sand wedge, or dynamiter. Also they lay the clubhead back. The swing is largely a right-hand-and-arm affair.

Watching Paul Runyan play out of a bunker in California it seemed to me that his clubhead cut across the line of direction at almost a forty-five degree angle, as indicated in the drawing above. The clubface was very open. His ball popped almost straight into the air and conquered a steep bank easily.

STIMULATION OF GLADIOLUS CORMELS BY SULPHURIC ACID

By J. E. BOSHER

Gladiolus growers may overcome the difficulty of getting the cormels, the bulbs, to grow by immersing them one hour in a 2½% solution of sulphuric acid.

At the request of C. E. McTavish, Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology, Saanichton, undertook to investigate the influence of sulphuric acid as a growth stimulant. Groups of fifty-five gladiolus cormels of approximately quarter-inch diameter were immersed in solutions containing 2½% and 5% sulphuric acid for periods of one, two and three hours respectively. All that were treated with sulphuric acid were stimulated, a higher percentage germinated and the subsequent growth was stronger, compared with the untreated. Stimulation was most marked in the lots immersed one hour in a 5% solution, but the difference in the effect of the 5% and 2½% solutions was small, consequently we recommend the immersion in a 2½% sulphuric acid solution as a rapid and safe treatment.

The detailed results are given in the accompanying table.

Solution	Stratification	Germination	Number	Relative Growth
1 2½%	1 hr.	25	10	5
1 2½%	2 hrs.	25	11	6
1 2½%	3 hrs.	25	12	7
2 5%	1 hr.	25	13	8
2 5%	2 hrs.	25	14	9
2 5%	3 hrs.	25	15	10

PY SECRETS CAUSE ALARM

Washington Feared Revelations in Major Yardley's New "Black Chamber" Book

Congress in Panic Rushed through "Censorship" Bill to Quash Revelations

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, May 29.—Just tell the use of Representatives to pass a bill and it is sure to act promptly. Whether it knows what it is doing or not.

The idiotic tale of the "official secrets bill" proved that the poor old use functions these days almost automatically. But in this case there is a large backwash of angry howls, fantastic rumors, dark suspicions and embarrassed regrets.

It is well understood that the State Department told the Judiciary Committee on the necessity of preventing publication of one little book, but it still undetermined who tried to put a fast one by jamming through measure which would have given the administration dictatorial powers over the press. Some congressmen profess to believe that the White House itself is interested, but the evidence is entirely unconvincing, and President Roosevelt was prompt to disclaim any knowledge or sympathy.

Instead of a measure to protect diplomatic codes and secrets, the thing the House passed might have been decode secret messages of foreign nations when they can get hold of them. Possibly some confirmation of Yardley's insistence that we don't go in enough or well enough for coding and decoding was offered on the floor by Congressman Hamilton Fish of New York, the famous investigator of Communists. Fish said he had subpoenaed about 3,000 coded telegrams which had passed between the Amtorg Trading Corporation in New York and Soviet Russia.

"I was informed by both the Navy Department and the War Department that they had decoding experts who could decode any telegram in code that was ever sent by any country in the world," he revealed.

"I presented a large part of these telegrams to the War Department and the Navy Department without result. Not one expert—and they had from six months to a year—succeeded in decoding a single word of these cablegrams."

Fish hoped that funds would be voted so that there might be greater efficiency and capacity in decoding cablegrams.

"His revelation was especially interesting because the Army and Navy have always veiled their coding and decoding operations with complete secrecy. They simply won't discuss the subject at all."

"EX-BLACK CHAMBER"

The U.S. district attorney in New York recently seized the manuscript of Yardley's new book. It is supposed to contain startling information about secret negotiations and messages around the time of the Washington Arms Conference of 1921-22. Yardley's story of how he and his associates "broke" the Japanese code at that time was one of the high spots of his earlier book. He complained bitterly that Secretary Stimson had abolished the "Black Chamber"—which he said was the cryptographic bureau of the State Department—in 1929, leaving us unable to compete in international espionage and intrigue.

When Yardley's book was translated into Japanese it created considerable anti-American sentiment. There was, for instance, the alleged revelation that this government had been aware of the Japanese armament proposals well before their presentation to the conference.

The State Department never did a very thorough job of denying Yardley's allegations. Its officials merely refused to admit them.

Burned Workman Is Progressing

James Trebett, who sustained serious burns when the government road oil-sprayer caught fire Friday afternoon near the Malahat summit, was today reported to be progressing satisfactorily at the King's Daughters' Hospital, Duncan, to which institution he was taken following the accident. Trebett was on the back of the sprayer truck when it burst into flame and he was severely scalded by the hot oil on both legs below the knees. He was attended by Dr. George More of Shawnigan Lake, and after receiving first aid was rushed to the Duncan hospital. The point where the accident occurred is just this side of Cousins Camp on the Malahat Highway. The sprayer, valued at about $12,000, is believed to be a total loss.

Some Pitchers Work By Sweat of Brow

By AL DEMAREE

While it is not a general practice, and umpires would quickly squelch it if it were, it is a fact that certain pitchers throw what is known as a "perspiration" or "sweat ball."

It is just another name for the outlawed "spit ball." The pitcher sneaks some of the perspiration that has gathered on his forehead under the visor of his cap and applies it to the ball. It is really a "spitter."

Some pitchers who can squirt a thin stream a distance of several feet, apply it to the ball while their backs are turned to the batter and umpire. It's o.k. if you can get away with it.

HOW NEW YORK BANKS KEEP TAB ON FLUCTUATING CURRENCIES

Fluctuations of the world's currencies keep the foreign exchange departments of banks in New York's financial district humming with activity these days. This scene in the Bank of Manhattan Company is typical. In maintains almost constant communication with Europe's money centres and the whirling drum at the right, employing a slide rule principle, calculates the price on foreign currencies with just a few manipulations.

time, is the attraction at the Dominion Theatre.

Based on happenings within the memory of the present generation, the picture's episodes present a replica of the most colorful royal court in the world, thus including the spectacle of a "period" picture while still remaining strictly a modern story.

John Barrymore plays the Empress, John is cast as Prince Chagodeff, and Lionel essays the role of the "Holy Devil" in the sensational picturization of the downfall of the Empire and the rise of the Bolshevik regime. In every case, perfect makeup makes the characters exact replicas of the originals.

English Films Are Scheduled

Practically all the famous English comedy stars that are household names in the Old Country have been introduced to Victorians by the British picture policy of the Empire Theatre. They are Jack Hulbert, Ralph Lynn, Tom Walls, Gene Gerrard and Stanley Lupino. But this by no means exhausts the list of leading funmakers that have made such a wonderful impression on Canadian during the past year. In a short time Victorians will see and hear the greatest English singing comedienne, Gracie Fields, who will be seen in her latest musical picture, "Looking On the Bright Side." Before this Sydney Howard will be seen in his debut, "It's a King." He appears as Jack Hulbert, brother of the famous Jack. "It's a King" is the story of a north country insurance agent, named King, who on a cheap trip to the continent, gets mistaken for a real king traveling in private.

One of the most spectacular and elaborate scenes in years was filmed in the making of "The Mask of Fu Manchu." Sax Rohmer's thriller of the Orient now playing at the Columbia Theatre.

The scene was a reproduction of a Chinese forty-eight-hour banquet, staged as in actuality with hundreds of strange costumes, vivid entertainments and fantastic settings. The band represents the feast given to the leaders of the Asiatic tribes by Dr. Fu Manchu, acted in the film by Boris Karloff.

Chinatown was invaded by members of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer technical staff for the purpose of obtaining poses and strange statues.

Also being shown on the same programme is Jean Harlow in "Red Headed Woman."

A simple practice so necessary to happy courtship and marriage is brought to a fine art by Stanley Lupino and Jack Hobbs in "That's My Uncle," now playing at the Empire Theatre to-day.

As two friends with a "past," they are ever ready to stand by one another in their hour of need, but events prove too overwhelming for them in the shape of two infuriated uncles, a police "cop," a peer of the realm and a Spanish vamp.

Together, step gently out of the frying pan into the fire—the fire, this time, being at the village hotel.

"Rasputin and the Empress," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's sensational drama of the fall of the Romanoffs, with John, Ethel and Lionel Barrymore together on the screen for the first time.

Saanich Thistles won the championship of the Pacific Coast Football League's injured players' football competition for first division teams, at the Athletic Park on Sunday afternoon, by defeating the

The game was marred by an unfortunate accident in the second half. Cyril Connorton, right winger of the Wests, who fractured a collarbone in the first half, was unable to play fullback. Play was halted and Connorton taken from the field on a stretcher and rushed to the hospital.

THISTLES IN LEAD

The game was only a few minutes old when Chapman banged in his goal. It was a slow shot from the quarters and Rowe, in goal for the Thistles, was unable to save the ball, apparently figuring it would pass the post. The Wests engaged several dangerous attacks with four goals in the first half. The first was on Recall. Alan Wright drove a long shot that Restall tipped over the bar and the Wests failed to take advantage of the goalkeeping error. The other end Morgan tried to pick off the top corners but Rowe leaped strictly as a team from Price with an equal share in his mercy. Half-time for the Thistles still leading by the goal.

In the early stages of the second half the Wests worked hard for the winning goal but were unable to get the stiff defence of their opponents. The Wests had hard luck when they took two hard shots direct at Restall. Thistles went two goals up when Connor headed in Price's centre.

Wests appealed for a freebie but referee Swan waived to the centre of the field for a centre-off.

Shortly after Connor was ordered to leave the field, leaving the Wests on only ten men. A few minutes later the final whistle cockin drove the Wests' goal, scoring from a rebound on his own shot which hit the post.

Dave Swan referred.

Washington Wins Over Athletics

St. Louis Cardinals Climb
Into Second Place in Keen
National Race

Just about every time the fans start saying Babe Ruth is "through," baseball's great slugger steps out and shows them there's life in the old horse yet.

The Babe made his reply yesterday when more than 50,000 fans were out at the Yankee Stadium to see for themselves as the New York Yanks played a double-header with the Chicago White Sox.

He busted three homers, hit a single that led to another important run and personally led the Yanks to a double victory that assured them of holding the American League lead for a while longer at least. The scores of the two games were 2 to 1 and 9 to 7.

The double defeat dropped the Pale Hose down into fifth place, a half game behind the Philadelphia Athletics and Cleveland Indians, who gained a virtual tie for third even though the Athletics lost to Washington and the Indians broke even with the Boston Red Sox.

The second-place Senators pasted Babe Ruth for a hit and four runs in the eighth to beat Philadelphia 7 to 4. Cleveland climbed out of the second division to a spot five points behind the Athletics by pouncing on an ill to 2 victory after Bob Weiland's six-hit pitching had enabled the tail enders to beat Oral Hildebrand and Cleveland Indians, who gained a virtual tie for third even though the Athletics lost to Washington and the Indians broke even with the Boston Red Sox.

CARDINALS NOW SECOND

St. Louis Cardinals clambered into second place in the National League by sweeping a doubleheader with the Phillies, 8 to 7 and 5 to 3. They came from behind with a late attack on Plunk Rhem in the opener, in which they were aided by five Philly errors.

Brooklyn's Dodgers knocked their neighbors, New York Giants, out of second place and gained sixth for themselves with a 5 to 4 victory when they piled up enough runs off Carl Hubbell in the early frames to catch and defeat Detroit 5 to 3.

The champion Chicago Cubs, moved up another notch, beating Boston Braves twice, 5 to 1 and 3 to 2, to run their winning streak to five straight games and tie Cincinnati for fourth place.

The Reds gained an even break with the pace-setting Pittsburgh club when Babe Bixey, an old Pirates "line," pitched five-hit ball to win the second game 4 to 0 after the Reds had bunched their blows off Red Lucas to win the opener 4 to 2.

Scottish Team Wins Close Rifle Shoot

High Score at 600-Yard
Range Gives 16th Victory
in Gordon Cup Event

One Point Separates Three
Eight-man Teams Competing
For Island Honors

In the closest match ever witnessed on local ranges, representatives of the Canadian Scottish Saturday afternoon won the 26th Gordon Cup, emblematic of the Vancouver Island rifle team championship, competing against the Garrison and Fifth Brigade at Healy's Range. The match was shot over the 200, 300 and 600 yard ranges, the Scottish and Garrison being tied on total points with a total of 1,081. The trophy went to the Scottish in view of the fact that that team had the better total for the 600 yard range.

P. V. Richardson and E. Shrobes, both of the Fifth, were deadlocked for high individual honors with 143½. The former won the shoot off for the trophy.

The smaller B rifle targets were used for the shoot, and will be used throughout the year, owing to the fact that they will be employed during the B.C.R.A. meet this year. Under these conditions the marksmen fire at a five-inch bull at 200 yards and a fifteen-inch disc at 600 and 300 yards, instead of eighteen inches.

Top honors in the weekly shoot went to Mrs. Hugo Rayment, who registered ninety-four out of a possible 105. Signaller G. E. Knight was second with a ninety-three, and Capt. D. O. Thomas and Miss Owen Spencer tied for third place with ninety-two.

U.S. MAKES CLEAN SWEEP

Scores Third Straight Davis
Cup Tennis Victory at Expense of Argentine

Washington, May 29.—A mighty United States Davis Cup team today had completed a clean sweep of its matches on this side of the Atlantic, recording a 4 to 0 victory over Argentina and losing its only battle to a heavy rain that drowned out the Saturday's final singles contest.

Ellsworth Vines, United States number one man and Wimbledon champion, was forced to call on his best shot-making before downing Tector Cataruzza, 7-6, 6-1, 5-7, 5-1, in Saturday's opening singles.

Wilmer Allison, American captain, was leading Adriano Zappa, Argentine team leader, 6-2, 6-1, with the games at two-all in the third set, when a downpour interrupted play.

The American Davis Cuppers thus will be able to cross the Atlantic to meet the winner of European zone play without a blemish upon their slate. Mexico, Canada and Argentina have fallen before them.

Fractional Losses As Selling Flurry Hits Wheat Market

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, May 29.—Faltering in final dealings, wheat futures lost most of the ground they had won in an all-session-long recovery from opening declines as further selling in the closing minutes left values more than half a cent lower.
Previous values had regained all of the one-cent losses sustained at the start of the session. But as selling again swept over the pit at the close futures finished 1/2 cent under the previous finish, May at 64 1/2, July at 64 1/2, October 66 1/2 and December 67 1/2 cents.
